Silly Scenes - Example Scene

Read the example scene below, featuring a Forgetful Chef and an Angry Doctor. After you read the scene, answer the reflection question at the bottom of the page. Then, reread the scene. Underline the dialogue and and circle the narration sentences.

Scenario: The Forgetful Chef (FC) and the Angry Doctor (AD) are both walking down the street. The Angry Doctor is walking behind the Forgetful Chef. Suddenly, the Forgetful Chef stops walking, and the Angry Doctor runs into her.

AD:

“Hey! Hey, you! Why did you suddenly stop like that? You made me walk right into you!”

FC:

“Oh, I’m sorry. Are you OK? I was trying to remember an ingredient that I was supp—”

AD:

“I don’t care what you were trying to remember. I’m a doctor, and I’m in a hurry trying to get to the hospital. You don’t see me running into people!”

The Angry Doctor continues on his journey, down the sidewalk. He’s stomping his feet and muttering angrily to himself under his breath. The Forgetful Chef looks around, still trying to remember the ingredient she was going to buy.

FC:

“Hm, now what was it that I was supposed to buy? Oh, I know! I’ll just check my shopping list.”

The Forgetful Chef pats her pants pockets and the pocket on her chef’s jacket.

FC:

“Oh, dear. Now where did I leave my shopping list?”

What are the 2 main ways the reader learns the Chef is forgetful and the Doctor is angry?
