Dear President,

My name is Camila and I'm 9 years old. I live in Los Angeles and I see people without homes and food everyday. And it makes me sad. They make fires to keep warm, and I'm afraid the fires will burn our house down.

So I would like you to help them out. Housing costs too much and it is hard for people to buy. I don't think people want to live in the street.

Since you are the president I want you to help them out. You could make it easier for new buildings to be built, and put homeless people there. You could also put people in empty buildings.

If you visit Los Angeles, I would like you to visit my house, and I'll show you where the homeless people live. I will donate my own money to help.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Camila Ruiz Garcia
